BILL PRICE: Good evening. My name is Bill Price, retired nuclear engineer. I'm certified in California, and I have had much experience with radiation. I've done radiation testing of various kinds throughout my career of about 35 years, and I'm still here. I'm not suffering from any radiation damage.

I've designed test facilities, radiation test facilities, and I've suffered no ill effects, and anybody that worked for me has not as well. Anytime that people work around our facilities they always had radiation monitors on them. I'm sure that at Yucca Valley they do too.

1 So basically I'm speaking on the side for the facility. Not many of us here tonight are doing that, but I'm in favor of it. I think that the nuclear power people need some place to put these facilities, these fuel elements that they need to park somewhere, and somebody's got to do it. So I'm personally for that facility being built.
